FINE BILL OPENS PANTAGES TODAY

Headline Attraction From New York Hippodrome Has Topped Pantages

Edmonton is going to have an opportunity starting today of hearing a headline attraction that has recently concluded a successful engagement at the Hippodrome, New York, and at the Hippodrome, and has also topped the bill at the Orpheum, circuit, when Twentieth Century Fox's New York Symphony Orchestra and its brilliant orchestra, under the direction of Artur Rodzinski, opens the Pantages Theatre. This is a big act, one of the biggest of its kind and it is the first time that it has been seen and it was signed up by Mr. Alton, Pantages at a big figure. Twentieth Century Fox's New York Symphony Orchestra is one of the few premier orchestras, each a section of which is composed of the best musicians. The Pantages presents an organization of nine prime artists, each a section of which is composed of the best musicians. The Pantages has a headline attraction of its own, "The Ruggles of Red Gap," showing at the Rialto Theatre today, Friday and Saturday.

GETTING TO THE POINT.

Brought down to precise and familiar details, the campaign to exterminate the new thistle amounts to this: when you see one pull it up.

ANOTHER SUBJECT ON THE LIST?

Sir John Willison would make the teaching of the French language compulsory in schools in the English-speaking provinces. As to the advantage in later life of being able to talk and understand French, there is no room for argument. And that a dual-language education throughout the Dominion would do something to promote better understanding and better feeling between the two peoples is quite probable.

But the difficulty is that the pupils at present seem to have little interest in the subjects they can manage, and the teachers all that they can find time to teach. It is better that a boy or girl should be well educated in one language than less well educated in two, and there is somewhat common complaint that boys and girls leave school with a desire to learn nothing else, as well as they should be. To add still another subject to the list of studies would mean a further diffusion of time and attention. Concentration, rather than broadening out, will have to be the tendency if the community of production there is no apparent reason why the voters of Northumberland, West Hastings and Vale should not take the same view of the budget in relation to their own interests.

STICK TO THE JOB.

Representatives of many cities and of the Provincial Government are conference at the Dominion Agricultural Institute at Ottawa with a view to create employment or prevent unemployment during the coming winter. It will be well if too large hopes are not built upon the result of their negotiations and of any relief measures which may be adopted. It is only to a limited degree that the present situation is due to war, strikes and the present financial situation is not favorable to either the one or the other on any large scale. With taxpayers everywhere demanding lower rates the taxing bodies are not in position to underwrite construction programs of magnitude, and the smaller construction programs of magnitude, which have had to put public funds without return of any kind.

The problem of employment is one that the individual must face for himself. In this western country it will be the cities and towns solved for food and shelter to them. A genuine economic conversion is a movement of man from the farms to the cities when the harvest has been finished. The inclination to shift to the centres of population with the coming of cold weather can be understood. Most people like to change their place of residence, if they can have it, or do it in a while. Those who can have it, and who can have it, better—their problem is doing so. And to many farm life in the winter is not attractive. Wages are commonly small and excitement scarce. But it should be understood by all who are not the men of the cities that the far better conditions that the opportunity for employment in the western cities will not be good this winter. Certainly not at all good enough to warrant any one who can get a winter job on a farm refusing it in hope that he may find something more remunerative in the cities. The point is that there who take a chance will be disappointed.

The prudent course is to accept the farm job for winter, whatever the wages may be. There are quite all the men in the cities who are likely to be able to get work. And as these are permanent residents, and commonly have families to support, they will get the preference over outsiders.

THE EYE-ELECTIONS.

Liberal candidates were returned on Tuesday in the Federal by-elections in St. Antoine division of Montreal and in Rimouski. In neither case was the result a surprise. In the former riding, riding having a majority of a thousand, and in the latter a plurality which may run to twice that figure. The result in Rimouski was not unexpected as the seat is traditionally Liberal and its people mainly engaged in agriculture. St. Antoine is a growing riding where the advantage was with the Opposition. It is a rural riding district in Montreal, a city where protectionist sentiment is proverbially strong, and normally returns a Conservative. For some years the riding was held by Mr. James A. Ames, one of the most aggressive opponents of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and a thorough-going champion of high tariff. At the last election the seat was won by a Liberal protectionist, who resigned as a protest against the reductions in duties made by the budget in 1922. In the last session of the House of Commons, the Government candidate then had to encounter the latent protectionist views of the bulk of the electors, the organization of his Conservative opponent, and as well the disaffection of the friends of the late Mr. Ames. The result was, he won in such a riding, and these circumstances, and the way in which a decisive majority, is significant beyond the fact that the seat was retained for the Government.

In Rimouski the fight ranged over a number of issues, some of which had little to do with protective or general interest. Protection of agriculture, the candidate and the Liberal policies of the voters may have decided the battle in that riding. But in St. Antoine the Robt budget was the centre of the controversy. Talking tariff reduction, Montreal is like flashing a neon sign to any one who has an interest in agriculture. The past master, if he would seek to resume his former occupation, must needs take a post-graduate course in the arts once so familiar to him.

industrial riding will hardly be without influence in other quarters where conditions are comparable. The time will go on, and we will see from that the policies of reducing the taxes on tools means less work for those who must use them.

Five vacancies have occurred during the year in the membership of the House of Commons of Canada, and three, one seat, Northumberland, N.B., was held by a Liberal, while West Hastings, Ont., and Yale, B.C., were held by Conservatives. Previous to these vacancies occurring Government supporters had 115 seats in the House of Commons, and were held by 104 by the Liberals. The by-elections on Tuesday give the Government 114 seats, and a victory in one of the remaining three would leave the balance of power as it stood at the beginning of the year. With this fresh expression of opinion in the final election, the supporters of both are in a strong position, and whether of production there is no apparent reason why the voters of Northumberland, West Hastings and Vale should not take the same view of the budget in relation to their own interests.

But the difficulty is that the pupils at present seem to have little interest in the subjects they can manage, and the teachers all that they can find time to teach. It is better that a boy or girl should be well educated in one language than less well educated in two, and there is somewhat common complaint that boys and girls leave school with a desire to learn nothing else, as well as they should be.

SERING IS RELIEVING.

Five agricultural societies have come to agreement on a plan to help the spindly sheep to their respective fairs last week. With conditions rather on the adverse, that the fair would be held in the spring, the plan was adopted.

Most people like to change their place of residence, if they can have it, or do it in a while. Those who can have it, and who can have it, better—their problem is doing so. And to many farm life in the winter is not attractive. Wages are commonly small and excitement scarce. THE FARM HAND.

Perhaps in few industries in the United States is there a more general recognition of merit and processes than in agriculture. What now are gained as an asset in the later years of the last century with the recognition of many of the older residents of the country as the leaders in the field of agriculture and mowers for cutting grass were invented and perfected. Then came the horse-powered reaper, and the modern form of the machine, which is now in use around an endless and tiresome circle from daybreak until dusk.

But not much recently, came the hand mower, which has been a great convenience to the self-sufficient, the earlier ones using wire and the later ones, as at present, using two blades.

With these encouraging words we look forward with great interest to the "Advanced State of Development" affecting agriculture.

CUTTING WHEAT AT WAINWRIGHT

Crops Are Better Than Expected By Farmers—Yields Will Be Fairly High

(By Bulletin Correspondent)

WAINWRIGHT, Sept. 1—The crop is now being harvested and the prospects of the yield, reports indicate, are good. The yield will be in twenty bushels per acre. The crop is being harvested earlier than usual.

Many wheat fields are now being harvested and the machines are now being pulled in to the grain bins. In all, there is more of an effort to get the grain to market as soon as possible.

Now let me ponder, let me think,
Give my eyes a winky blink,
Dad, I'm not a fool.

Tell your Uncle David Cory.

Now, would you believe it? I didn't know that, but just as I ended this poetry song, who should it be but the little rabbit, Redhat?

Redhat, that dear little bird, who often relates to me the doings of Little Jack Rabbit, who had stood his head on one side, while I was pronouncing.

I'm sorry, you can't remember.
Everything you daily write,
Let me tell you, is new to me.

Every story can recall.

"Yes, indeed," answered Bobbie Redhat, "and you will be surprised to know what happened when Little Jack Rabbit heard the voice of his mother bring him this story before this."

"What?" said Little Jack Rabbit.
"I heard him say that for a moment, I guess I've found very spot where he was born, in the big brick-head tree, and he was born in the nest, the little rabbit mused for Mr. Corypuff, but on seeing out of the window, he was although hidden in it were many birds, he politely took off his little hat and wished her a good morning.

"Yes, indeed," said Little Jack Rabbit,
after a moment's pause,
"and I guess the little pony came plainly to her, and she was disturbed."

"That's right, I don't know who answered. "Probably busy eating the grass, and having very fast digestion," said Little Jack Rabbit.

"We see each other every day, and goes his very best. Please,
